

Homi Koedam

To paint is my passion.

I was born in Iran (19-12-1951), left Tehran for London in July 1974 to study further, completed my studies in industrial design and met my husband in Amsterdam in 1980 when I was a student at the Rietveld Academie. We married in 1982, I have two daughters. Now I'm a grandmother too.

I started my studies in England. There I trained at the Surrey School of Design. I then completed the graphic design and interior design courses in the Netherlands at the Rietveld Academy.

I've been an interior designer and have many projects on my behalf. You can find a selection of my activities on my website, especially in the gallery of headings.

My area of work is very diverse. Orders for the complete furnishing of houses alternated with the decoration of office buildings. From modern to classic and from country to retro.
